Gokak MLA Ramesh Jarkiholi sex CD scandal

Supporters burn tyres, block roads, demand reinstatement

Bengaluru, Mar.5 (SSV)- High drama was witnessed in Gokak town of Belagavi district this noon when a person, said to be a staunch follower of former Water Resources Minister Ramesh Jarkiholi, was critically injured after he jumped on the burning tyre at Basaveshwara Circle in Gokak.

Ramesh Jarkiholi

This incident occurred when the followers of Jarkiholi were burning tyres to block movement of vehicles in the town against what they termed as 'deep-rooted conspiracy' to besmirch the image of their leader following the release of the sex CD to the media by social activist Dinesh Kalahalli, who alleged that the woman in the video clips was enticed by the Minister with a Government job offer.

At that moment, a person emerged from the crowd and jumped on the burning tyre. He was caught in the flames and the hot tyre rubber stuck to his body. The injured person has been identified as Ganapati Rajput of the town.

Police personnel were shell-shocked over the incident and rescued him by pouring water on him. An ambulance was summoned to shift the critically injured person to the hospital.

TOTAL BANDH

Since morning, the die-hard supporters of former Minister had hit the streets seeking stern action against Dinesh Kallahalli, a Bengaluru-based social activist, who handed over the alleged sex CD of Jarkiholi to Bengaluru Police, seeking action. As precaution, North West Karnataka Road Transport Corporation (NWKRTC) stopped plying of buses to and from Gokak town. Autorickshaws were off roads. Students were forced to walk to their Schools and Colleges. All business and commercial establishments remained closed since morning. Even road-side vendors were forcefully evicted from the streets. Jarkiholi's supporters claimed that their leader had been 'fixed' by his political opponents and demanded for his re-induction into the Council of Ministers till inquiry. Dinesh must be arrested by Police to know the persons behind this CD scandal.

'AEROPLANE TREATMENT'

Meanwhile, talking to reporters in Mysuru, former CM and Janata Dal (Secular) leader H.D. Kumaraswamy has urged the Police to give 'aeroplane treatment' to all those who were claiming to have the sex CD of a few politicians of the State in their possession.

Kumaraswamy said he was not talking in favour of former Water Resources Minister Ramesh Jarkiholi, who was forced to tender resignation after the CD containing the sleaze clippings were released, but such kind of 'blackmailing' should be stopped immediately.

Some miscreants target politicians and blackmail them. "The Police must take note of such persons who claimed to have the sex CDs of politicians and it must be made public by the State Government. Dinesh has claimed that a former CM was behind Jarkiholi's sex CD. The Cops must interrogate him to know who is that, since there are many former CMs in the State, including me."

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

With same sex couples approaching Delhi High Court for legal sanctity of marriage to their relationships, how long can Centre oppose the idea that has gained gradual acceptance in progressive jurisdictions? For many people, marriage is the next logical step in formalising their relationships. And thus the legal fight now after Supreme Court decriminalised homosexual relationships in 2018. Centre's affidavit rejected a fundamental right to same sex marriage, noting its incompatibility with the "Indian family unit concept of a husband, a wife and children, which necessarily presuppose a biological man as 'husband', a biological woman as 'wife' and the children born out of the union between the two." The heterosexual marital union described here is a limited interpretation of family. Marriage also works as a civil contract between consenting adults and as societal signalling by the couple. When formalised through religious rituals, marriage further acquires sacramental significance.

Denying these benefits of a marital union to couples whose relationship gained legal acceptance in 2018 can be interpreted as a denial of their fundamental rights to life with dignity, equality before law, and right against discrimination by the State on grounds of gender. The legal challenge against Section 377 IPC was preceded by a long struggle to humanise the plight of homosexual persons and reverse the colonisation of the Indian mind by Victorian morality, which effaced the much older Indian tradition of acceptance of gender and sexual diversity. Centre's affidavit won't be the last chapter of this epic struggle. — In The Times of India

Bottled fresh air for over 100 dollars a bottle

London: A company in the United Kingdom has landed in controversy online for selling glass bottles filled with the "freshest coastal air" for up to 105 dollars per bottle.

Coast Capture Air started bottling fresh air and selling it as a souvenir and a talking point about the importance of clean air in the modern era, but then people from polluted areas of the world reportedly started buying these bottles for practical purposes, inhaling the clean coastal air every day. They told the company that it helped counter the harmful effects of air pollution, so it kept selling it and even attached a price tag that seems staggering for what is essentially an empty glass bottle – 75 pounds (105 dollars).

Student creates delicious-looking stone sushi

Tokyo: A talented art and design student recently stunned the Japanese social media with his collection of delicious-looking sushi made exclusively of stone.

Hama, a student of the Joshibi University of Art and Design, in Kanagawa, Japan, has been exhibiting his stunning stone sushi at various universities across his country, to great success. And it's easy to see why; his work is absolutely amazing, with some bite-sized pieces looking so realistic that you can hardly tell them apart from the real thing.

He said that he got into making stone sushi completely by mistake. He was messing with a piece of red granite in class a few years back and thought that it looked like a piece of tuna. After shaping it into a piece of sushi, Hama realised that it had turned out a lot better than he had anticipated, so that inspired him to continue experimenting.

Check motorists with tampered Regn. Number Plates

Sir,

Kudos to Mysuru City Traffic Police for their action in apprehending the minors and their parents for all sorts of traffic rules violations (apropos the news item "Law catches up with underage drivers" in SOM dated Feb.28).

Minors definitely cannot ride a vehicle without the knowledge or permission of their parents or guardians. Because of peer pressure or wrong influence, minors commit traffic rules violations. It is the responsibility of the elders to guide them correctly. Both the minors and their parents or guardians deserve to be punished strictly as per the law when the traffic rules are violated.

Unfortunately there are many haughty parents who keep boasting the driving skills of their minor wards. They are either unaware or conveniently forget that these minors who lack maturity can invite accidents.

Initially we could see rampant triple riding among the youngsters. Now we can also see four persons riding a two-wheeler.

With extra vigil in the vicinity of schools and colleges, Traffic Police will be able to curtail the minors from committing traffic rules violations.

Next target of Mysuru City Traffic Police should be the two-wheelers moving with deliberately tampered Registration Number Plate or the vehicles without number plate.

The trend of detaching the registration number plate is now catching up with the youngsters, with the sole aim to escape Police dragnet when they commit violations.

Bring all Small Scale Industries under Pollution Control Board ambit: C.P. Yogeeshwar

Ecology and Environment Minister inaugurates Consent Mela

Ecology and Environment Minister C.P. Yogeeshwar is seen lighting the lamp to inaugurate 'Consent Mela' jointly organised by KASSIA, DIC and KSPCB at a private hotel in Mysuru on Mar. 3 as other dignitaries look on. Picture right shows a section of audience.

Mysuru, Mar.5 (RKB&SSV)- Tourism, Ecology and Environment Minister C.P. Yogeeshwar has instructed officials to bring all Small Scale Industries (SSIs) under the ambit of Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB). He was speaking after inaugurating 'Consent Mela' (Sammathi Mela) jointly organised by Karnataka Small Scale Industries Association (KASSIA), District Industries Centre (DIC) and KSPCB and distributing 'Sammathi Letters' at a programme held at a private hotel here on Mar. 3.

The Minister said, "You have sought one month time to receive 'Consent Letters.' Ours is a people-friendly Government and we are not here to trouble you. It is the responsibility of KASSIA to bring all SSIs under the ambit of KSPCB. Our Government will look into the issue of fees. If it is more, we will definitely reduce it. Till then, the existing fees will continue till Mar. 31."

Yogeeshwar said though over 6 lakh SSIs were active in the State, hardly one lakh industries have obtained letter of registration from his Department. Instructions have been given to officials concerned to bring all SSIs under the KSPCB following directions from National Green Tribunal (NGT). It was the responsibility of everyone to check air, water and noise pollution.

"Our intention is not to scare anyone but only to collect the minimum fees. As there are objections from Small and Medium Scale Enterprises (SMEs) that the fee was exorbitant, it will be considered at the Government-level," he noted.

He said all kinds of industrial activities remained standstill for 7-8 months in all countries due to COVID-19 pandemic. The Government has taken all steps for revival of industries and to support industrialists, he added.

KSPCB Member-Secretary Srinivasalu, DIC Joint Director D.K. Lingaraju, KASSIA President K.B. Arasappa, KASSIA Environment and Ecology Committee Panel Chairman H.K. Malleshgowda and others were present on the occasion.

Exclusive Water Supply and Sewerage Board needed for Mysuru

MP, MLAs, MUDA Chairman write to CM seeking funds for MWSSB on the lines of BWSSB

Mysuru, Mar. 5 (PM&BCT)- Does the city of Mysuru require an exclusive Mysuru Water Supply and Sewerage Board (MWSSB) on the lines of Bengaluru Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB)? Yes, feel MP Pratap Simha, MLAs G.T. Devegowda and L. Nagendra. Joining the chorus is Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) Chairman H.V. Rajeev.

All of them have written separately to Chief Minister B.S. Yediyurappa urging him to propose the establishment of MWSSB and allocate funds for the same in the forthcoming Karnataka Budget. Their argument is after Bengaluru, Mysuru is growing rapidly and the city needs to respond to water and drainage needs to support its growth.

Projects are being taken up to complement the growth like the 10-lane Highway from Mysuru to Bengaluru, mega drinking water supply projects to supply water from Krishna Raja Sagar (KRS) Dam, linking of the two cities with double-track electrified Railway line and others.

Pratap Simha G.T. Devegowda L. Nagendra H.V. Rajeev

In such a situation, there are many people from Bengaluru who are setting up their homes in Mysuru. Also, MUDA is constructing many layouts after acquiring lands beyond the Mysuru city limits in Mysuru Taluk, they said in their letters. If the MWSSB is established, all MUDA layouts can enjoy basic facilities, they stated.

MWSSB can effectively cater to the water supply and sewage line requirements of areas under not only the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) but MUDA layouts and MUDA-approved layouts in the city. Also, many private layouts and gated communities are mushrooming in and around Mysuru.

Limited resources

At present, Vani Vilas Water Works (VVWW), the water supply arm of the MCC, is catering only to the localities that are in the jurisdiction of MCC. MUDA layouts and MUDA-approved layouts, which are part of Gram Panchayats on the outskirts of Mysuru, are robbed of these facilities provided by VVWW. The Gram Panchayats do not have the financial or technical resources to ensure water supply and sewerage facilities to the new areas and the creation of MWSSB is the only solution, the MP, MLAs and MUDA Chairman have reiterated in their letters.

Over 50,000 residential sites have been developed in MUDA layouts and MUDA-approved private layouts on the outskirts and all these new extensions were being provided borewell water with fluoride content and there is a desperate need to supply potable water to these layouts that are presently under Gram Panchayat limits. Apart from financial and technical hurdles, the Gram Panchayats have no human resources to ensure water and drainage facilities, they said.

For additional water

Establishment of MWSSB will be pertinent now as the works on Hale Unduwadi drinking water project has been set in motion. The project seeks to bring additional water to the growing city areas, they argued. Mysuru receives 250-260 MLD (Million Litres a Day) of water from Belagola, Hongalli, Kabini and Melapura drinking water projects and the Hale Unduwadi drinking water project is aimed at bringing an additional 150 MLD water from KRS Dam.

There are drinking water sources like the Cauvery which flows barely 15 km north of Mysuru and the Kapila which runs at a distance of about 20 km south of the city. Yet, the residential areas that are part of MUDA layouts and MUDA-approved layouts are not receiving proper supply of water, they have stated in the letter.

Group clash leaves five injured

Mellahalli, Mar. 5 (RK&KS)-Clash between two groups over dancing during the village deity (Grama Devathe) festival at Mellahalli village in the taluk has left five people injured on Wednesday night.

The injured are 50-year-old Siddappa, 35-year-old Venkataramu, 23-year-old Cheluvaraju, 40-year-old Manchamma and 20-year-old M.B. Ravi. They have been admitted to K.R. Hospital in city. Natural farming key to good health, says Agri Expert University of Mysore (UoM) Vice-Chancellor Prof. G. Hemantha Kumar seen lighting the lamp to inaugurate the career guidance programme at Senate Hall here this morning as (from left) International Centre Director Prof. G.R. Janardhana, Agri Expert M.C.V. Prasad and UoM Registrar Prof. R. Shivappa look on.

Mysuru, Mar. 5 (RKB&BCT)- Over 1,500 students, who have completed their graduation and post-graduation attended a career guidance programme at Senate Hall here this morning. Titled "Graduation to Entrepreneurship," the highlight of the programme was a lecture by M.C.V. Prasad agriculturist, rural entrepreneur and founder of Prakurthivanam Foundation at Madanapalle in Chittor of Andhra Pradesh.

Prasad's farm — Prakurthivanam — has been running based on cow-based products. The farm is selling about Rs. 20 lakh worth of produce for the market and customers come from as far as Bengaluru to buy them. Prasad promotes organic farming methods without use of pesticides and chemical manures and use of indigenous seeds and cattle breeds. His aim is to promote the art of living close to and in harmony with nature.

Addressing students who were listening in rapt attention, the nature practitioner said that we were living in the age of packaged ready-to-eat pocket food available in abundance in the market. "We all eat white polished rice, instant food full of fatty acids, drink carbonated beverages filled in plastic bottles. These are destined to ruin our health," he said.

Natural farming methods can yield handsome revenues where farmers and entrepreneurs respect nature and at the same time we also safeguard our health. There are buyers in the market who are ready to pay a premium for organic produce, he said calling upon students to focus on health and entrepreneurship. "Do not wait for a government job. You can earn a livelihood with even small lands provided you are innovative and ready to respect nature," he said.

"You should practice natural farming at least in a small area to produce vegetables for your own consumption. It will ensure good health of your family," he said. He felt natural farming brings down input costs and at the same time improves health.

On agribusiness and health, Prasad said, "We must all begin to take concrete actions and help people overcome poor health and malnutrition. An important step in this direction is a new path for agricultural development, where agricultural growth is used not only to increase food production but also to enhance nutrition and health."

The programme was organised by Career Hub, Centre for Proficiency Development and Placement Services (CPDPS) and International Centre, University of Mysore.

MP distributes free hearing aids

Mysuru, Mar. 5 (RK&DM)- As part of 'World Hearing Day' (Mar. 3), Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha distributed free hearing aids to about 70 beneficiaries at a programme held at All India Institute of Speech and Hearing (AIISH) at Manasagangothri here this morning.

Speaking on the occasion, Pratap Simha said that AIISH is meaningfully and purposefully observing World Hearing Day by conducting various community-oriented programmes.

Lauding AIISH Director Dr. M. Pushpavathi for taking initiatives to conduct such programmes, he said that the Union Government was committed to eliminate hearing disorders just like Polio.

Pointing out that Union Health Minister Dr. Harsh Vardhan on Mar.3 inaugurated six Outreach Service Centres across the country to expand services of AIISH both in terms of diagnostics and therapeutics, Simha called for establishment of such centres in all 720 districts of the country so as to cover the entire population.

Stressing on the need for early detection of hearing and communication disorders, especially among kids, he advised the parents to get their child compulsorily tested for hearing before one year of birth, as it will largely help in successful treatment of problematic cases.

Asking the AIISH to frame a policy to make testing of hearing capabilities mandatory for children within one year of their birth, he said that school children must be screened for any hearing or communication disorders.

Pointing out that disabled persons need encouragement from the society, he lauded AIISH for all its initiatives for treating hearing disorders.

AIISH Director Dr. Pushpavathi said that as suggested by the MP, the AIISH will start work on framing a mandatory testing policy for hearing and communication disorders for early detection of such disorders among children.

She highlighted the treatment and therapeutics available at the Institute for hearing impaired of all ages and sections of the society. She further said that today's event was a symbolic one and the Institute has distributed hearing aids to more than 500 needy individuals from all sections of the society over the last one month during both within and outside campus events.

The beneficiaries who were distributed hearing aids today were from Mysuru, Mandya, Chamarajanagar and Kodagu districts. AIISH faculty members Dr. M. Sandeep, Dr. Praveen Kumar, Dr. Manohar and others were present.

Egg has transformed lives of two youths. Their hard work, perseverance and love for experiments have made people to come and taste over 30 varieties of snacks made from eggs.

Girish and Manish, sons of late Appanna and residents of D. Subbaiah Road in city, own 'Mysore Egg Palace', a mobile 'Palace-on-wheels' in which they sell varieties of snacks made out of egg. Taste of the snacks that they prepare daily has attracted customers not only from city but also from other cities.

Their push cart is parked behind Maharaja High School and PU College on Deputy Commissioner's Office Road. The snacks are prepared on the spot and served to customers piping hot. New experiment in egg has been their forte.

Appanna was eking out his livelihood by preparing omelette for nearly four decades. He was selling five varieties of snacks from egg on eat street situated on Dewan's Road near Marimallappa's High School for many years. His sons, Girish and Manish, were helping him during evening rush hours. After their father passed away, they got into his shoes and continued the business, but with a difference.

However, eviction of roadside food vendors from Dewan's Road came as a big shock. Without losing hope, they continued their 'kayaka' on a new location. The brothers started trying out new dishes out of egg with their own recipe and this brought them huge customers.

The makeshift shop is open from 4.30 pm to 10 pm daily except on Mondays and festivals. Customers are served on fresh plantain leaves and given pure drinking water. The rush of people is more on Saturdays, Sundays and other public holidays. Customers come looking for 'Mysore Egg Palace' from Bengaluru, Kodagu, Mandya and Chamarajanagar during weekends. During weekdays it is locals who throng this shop to savour the delicacy of their choice.

SUCCESS SECRET

Home-made recipe is the secret behind their success as the required ingredients (masala) are prepared at home using the traditional grinding stone instead of the mixer grinder. This attracts their customers.

"We were helping our father since childhood days. After his demise, we are running this mobile stall. Before Corona, around 500 eggs were sold daily but now it has dropped to 300 eggs. Both of us have learnt to make 180 kinds of snacks out of egg but prepare only 30 types as others require time. Duration of each variety is from 5 minutes to 8 minutes. Use of home-made masala in place of tasting powder has attracted customers. Our family is involved in egg-based snack business for the last 40 years and it has taken care of all of us."

— Girish and Manish
Owners of Mysore Egg Palace

"We came to know from our friends about the sale of 30 varieties of egg snacks at Mysore Egg Palace. The items are tasty and prepared in a hygienic manner."

WORD OF THE DAY

Megillah

Pronunciation: muh-GHIL-uh.
Meaning: A long involved story or account; an elaborate, complicated production or sequence of events; everything involved in what is under consideration : ball of wax.
Origin: Megillah derives from the Yiddish megile, which itself comes from the Hebrew word mĕgillāh, meaning "scroll" or "volume." (Mĕgillāh is especially likely to be used in reference to the Book of Esther, which is read aloud at Purim celebrations.) It makes sense, then, that when megillah first appeared in English in the mid-20th century, it referred to a story that was so long (and often tedious or complicated) that it was reminiscent of the length of the mĕgillāh scrolls. The Hebrew word is serious, but the Yiddish megile can be somewhat playful, and our megillah has also inherited that light-heartedness.
Example: "Well, one fine day last spring, I was laying off for a week at the Americana in New York when Solly phones me—a megillah about this inspiration that he and some other bookers had that morning in the steam room." — S. J. Perelman, The New Yorker, 18 Aug. 1965.

THE ODD WORD

Mackinaw

Heavy napped and felted wool cloth.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Make a rod for your own back

Meaning: To do something that inadvertently creates troubles or misfortune in future. The expression is usually used when someone has done something which seemed like a good idea at the time but comes back to bite them in some unexpected way.
Origin: The expression 'make a rod for your own back' is sometimes thought to be Victorian in origin. This may be influenced by the similarity with the proverb 'spare the rod and spoil the child'. Actually, that isn't Victorian in origin either, although people widely believe that it is as it is seen a epitomising their beliefs. In fact, 'make a rod for your own back' is much older. It is a variant of the phrase 'make a rod for yourself', which dates from at least the 15th century, as in this example from Thomas Malory's Morte Darthur, 1485:
I fere me ye haue made a rodde for your self. The rod being referred to in both 'spare the rod' and 'a rod for your own back' was the rod or cane used as a means of punishment. This was in common use in Victorian schools. The first use of the expression in the form we now use is found later, but still predates Victoria by almost two centuries. A religious tract by the 17th century author William Hughes entitled The Man of Sin, 1677 contains this line: Oh how the good man smiles to see what a Rod we have made for our own Back!
